

Featured Players Renaud Capuçon

Last December, we were honoured to welcome Renaud Capuçon, a longtime friend of Laurits Th. Larsen, here at Larsen Strings.

The famous violinist, who was in Sønderborg to play the Korngold violin concerto with South Denmark Philharmonic, took the time to visit our factory and to see for himself how Larsen Strings are developed, manufactured, and meticulously tested.

Renaud was kind enough to help us to produce a video of him in both performance and narration to make a record of his visit here.

We invite you to view this footage on our website and also to hear his observations about the impact that strings have had upon his career.

Larsen Strings: Updated Website

As part of our mission to continuously improve our service to you, we have significantly updated our online presence with an all new version of our website:

LARSEN STRINGS

Welcome to the Art of Science: Strings for Violin, Viola & Cello

Welcome

Some of the best thing in life happen by chance. A seemingly insignificant conversation and coincidence of events that ended with a simple question:

"Can you make me a cello A string?"

The answer was anything but simple but that chance remark led to the creation of Larsen Strings.

Combining practical, creative, musicianship with the experimentation of an enquiring technical mind the Larsen cello A was successfully delivered from the Larsen family garage and the Larsen family of strings began to grow along with the realisation.

That although some of the best things happen by chance we can make them truly remarkable by design.

This new, contemporary style, has been adopted to allow for fully responsive viewing and straightforward navigation on most devices from mobile 'phones to tablets to desktop.

This new mobile-friendly format also allows us to keep all information fully up to date because we can now directly edit page content from Sønderborg. This ensures that our website is always relevant and newsworthy and also means that larsenstrings.com meets the latest requirements of all current internet browsers and search engines.

Our intention is to add to content and to update news about products and visits from musicians see Renaud Capuçon.
